Elena, are you free for a brief call this afternoon to discuss any outstanding citizen comments on the notice with the public comment period that closed on October 26? If so, I can call you. Thank you.

Hi Josh -- Finally circling back on this. As we discussed last month, I am providing the consolidated version of the citizen comments that were submitted on the Texas BART proposal. Each state's pdf includes the standard comment sent from citizens in that state, then the names, addresses, and action date of commenters, along with any personal messages that they may have added in addition to the standard comment. You will note that all of these were submitted prior to the close of the public comment period. Thank you for including these in the rulemaking docket. Please let me know if you need any further information on this. I hope you have a great holiday season.

I was finally able to connect with the person who handled this on our end, and the comments were sent by entering information into a Sierra Club landing page which then sent the emails to the EPA email address. His records showed that pretty much all of the emails went through. Would it be possible to set up a conversation between him and your technical person to figure out where the issue is? Thanks,

Elena

I believe that there was a comment submission page, but I will have to talk to a staff person who is out of the office today to get the details. I'll get back to you as soon as I can. Thanks for looking into this.

Thank you for the information. To help me when I discuss this with our technical and/or IT folks, can you provide some more information on how the comments were submitted? Were they sent to that EPA e-mail address from the commenter's e-mail address (and Sierra Club was a cc or bcc)? Or did you have a comment submission page on your website that then sends them to the EPA email address? Or was there another submission method?

Thank you, Josh. The reason I checked in back in July was to make sure that EPA had received the 3,000+ comments so that they would be in the record when the final rule was issued. Suzanne's email suggested to me that they had made it, and therefore I did not follow up to make sure they were resubmitted if there was some problem. Our records show that Texas alone had over 2500 citizen commenters, New Mexico had over 600, and OK and AR have a little less than 200 each. These comments were sent to the e-mail address r6_tx-bart@epa.gov. Are you saying these were not received by EPA, or that they were not uploaded to the docket? If not received, we would like to resubmit and have them added to the rulemaking record. Thank you for your help.

Your e-mail mentioned thousands of citizen comments. We went back and double-checked; there are approximately 450.

Hi, just checking back in because I never heard back on this. Will the thousands of citizen comments submitted in support of the proposal be uploaded to regulations.gov? Please let me know either way. Thank you.

Hi Suzanne and Joe -- I forgot to ask about this on the status call today. During the public comment period, over 3,000 citizens from Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, and Arkansas submitted comments to the e-mail address r6_tx-bart@epa.gov in support of the TX BART proposal. I don't see the comments in the regulations.gov docket folder and wanted to make sure they were received. Thanks very much.
